

X-Rated Video Games Condemned

NEW YORK (AP) — A new X-rated video arcade game was condemned by the Episcopal Church's executive council as "prurient, lascivious and pornographic." Local churches were urged to work to prevent its sale.

The council heard a report that the game, called "Custer's Revenge," in which a naked male figure ravishes an Indian woman figure, is to be marketed by American Multiple Industries of Northridge, Calif., as the first of a number of X-rated games that may find their way into arcades across the country.
